About The Builder

JEMAB, Inc., an "S" Corporation, was developed by Joan C. Burton in 1990 in New York. Upon relocating to Georgia, she incorporated Georgia land purchased in 1992 into the corporation. Ms. Burton's background for developing a "Green" community is consistent with her education and years of research. Ms Burton did internships in housing and education law; and environmental studies on urban and suburban communities. "Green Building" includes alternative heating and cooling systems; space saving and water usage conversation equipment. "Green Building" is a criterion of good design. Demanding better, greener homes provides additional financing options. Lenders recognize the better value of a "Green home.
